SUBJECT: Detection

No major spring hardwood defoliators to our knowledge have been found on the Greenbrier District during May and June. However, we sent some insects to the field office at Delaware for identification. They were found on White Oak in the Tygart Valley area. As near as we could understand from their report these insects belonged to a cpmplex of leaf rollers which has not been worked out in the literature. In several areas over the district we have a browning of defoilation. This has been checked out by an aerial survey by the Delaware office. They have also made a field check of these areas. We presune they will make a formal report of their findings.
